

Frenchman Bay Partners present:

Tundi Agardy is an internationally renowned expert in marine conservation, with extensive field experience in Africa, Asia, the Caribbean, the Mediterranean and North America. She is Executive Director of Sound Seas, a marine conservation policy group based in the Washington D.C. area that develops initiatives to promote truly effective marine conservation by working at the interface between public policy and community-based conservation at the more localized level.

Tundi Agardy

“Market-Based Solutions to Marine Habitat Conservation”

Wednesday October 2nd, 2013

4 pm McCormick Lecture Hall

College of the Atlantic

Supported by the Alex C. Walker Foundation,
MDI Biological Laboratory and College of the Atlantic

